		Maundy fourpence, threepence, Maundy twopence, Maundy penny
	B. As set A but without five pounds and two pounds		B. Red leather case optional	B. £2..15..0 (with case) £2..10..0 (without case)	B. 952 (of which 805 in cases)
	C. As set A but eight silver coins only		C. Red leather case	C. 15..0	C. 2,243
1927	Silver:	crown, halfcrown, florin, shilling, sixpence, threepence	Either red leather case or red cardboard box	£1..1..0 (in leather case) 15..0 (in cardboard box)	15,000	Sales began in December 1927 and stocks were not finally exhausted until 1933. Precise production figures show 15,030 crowns, 15,020 halfcrowns, 15,013 sixpences and 15,022 threepences but there is no record of the issue of these additional pieces nor of any of the florin and the shilling.
1935	Gold:	crown	Leather case	£50	30	Of these, 25 were issued by ballot in May 1935. The remaining five were reserved for the King, the British Museum, the Bank of England, the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths, and the Royal Mint.
	Silver:	crown	Red cardboard box	7..6	2,500	These raised lettered edge patterns in sterling silver were issued to the first 2500 applicants in May 1935.
	Silver:	crown	Red cardboard box	5..6	14,382	No limit was placed on the number of 'selected' crowns, but minting ceased in August and sales did not extend beyond December 1935. Another source gives the total as 14,398 but this probably includes the pieces taken for the Trial of the Pyx. The number of ordinary coins was apparently 700,371.
